

GTR'S 2012 REPORT A NATIONAL PERSPECTIVE ON SPAIN'S BUILDING SECTOR

ACTION PLAN FOR A NEW HOUSING SECTOR

Press - The report has been featured in the following articles:

November 29, 2012

"Reducing the cost of heating in homes by 80% can generate 130,000 jobs"

November 29, 2012

"There are jobs here"

November 30, 2012

"Energy rehabilitation is key to reviving the economy"

January 13, 2013

"The GTR report proposes the retrofitting of 10 million homes"

November 29, 2012

"This study concludes that a thorough reform of 10 million homes in the country until 2050 can generate about 130,000 new jobs by 2020"

November 29, 2012

"The economy of the country will see returns from day one"

December 3, 2012

"This second report outlines in detail the necessary action plan to undertake the complete renovation of the housing sector towards energy rehabilitation" November 29, 2012

"The renovation of the housing stock in Spain in feasible and economically viable if there is an appropriate regulatory framework"

November 28, 2012

"Experts present at Conama a detailed action plan to reorient the housing sector towards energy rehabilitation in Spain"

"In comparison with the previous report, the current edition incorporates new intervention menus and over 80 new parameters"

November 27, 2012

"The great added value of this work is its ability to bring together the parties involved in a retrofit operation (funders, technicians, government, construction companies, etc."

This report has been prepared by:

Albert Cuchí Universitat Politècnica de Catalunya. Barcelona Tech Peter Sweatman CEO of Climate Strategy & Partners

Sponsored by:

